MAY BE SAFE ON COAST.

Friends of Dillon Wallace Optimistic, but Fear for Woman.

Friends of Dillon Wallace, the New-York lawyer who left here last June to explore the interior of Labrador, fear now that not only his whole expedition has perished, but that Mrs. Hubbard, the widow of Leonidas Hubbard, jr., who perished from starvation in the interior in 1903, is also missing. Mrs. Hubbard has not been heard from for months.

Alonzo J. McLaughlin, who was attorney for her husband's estate and Waliace's law partner, has not heard from her since soon after her start. According to the most accurate reports, Mrs. Hubbard gave up the expedition when she was a week out of St. John's and sent word by a mail boat that she was returning. This is the last word that has been heard from Mrs. Hubbard, and the reports concerning Mr. Wallace which reached here Tuesday cause grave fears for Mrs. Hubbard.

George M. Richards, the Columbia University student, and Peter Stevens, the fullblood Indian, who left Wallace and are now on their way to Halifax, have sent word here that they had searched in vain for Mrs. Hubbard's expedition when they left the interior. In a brief message Richards intimates that he has little hope for Wallace since his provisions have run out, and game is not to be had in the interior at this season of the year.

While these reports were being received yesterday Mr. McLaughlin received a cable message from Dillon Wallace. The message had been delayed and bore no date. It may have been sent in the form of a letter carried by the slow mail steamers and afterward left at some cable station along the coast, where it was put in brief

"At the time this was delivered," Mr. Mc-Loughlin said, "Wallace seemed to be in a cheerful mood, and must have had no misgivings about his expedition. He says briefly that all was well, and that he intended to take the Ugadava trail into the interior. This is an entirely new trail, one which he had probably mapped out himself. In this note, too, he intimated that two of the expedition talked of returning, because one was destrous of resuming his studies. Further than this I know nothing. I am not alarmed as yet." I am not alarmed as yet."
Wallace's friends, however, are worried, be wallace's friends, however, are worthen, because the Indian guide, Peter Stevens, turned back. Hubbard once declared to Wallace and those who accompanied him on the fatal expedition that the Indian guide was indispensable. It is said that no matter how much Wallace may

DEMONSTRATION IN ST. VINCENT.

People Demand a Greater Share in Government of the Island.

Kingstown, St. Vincent, Nov. 8 .- A great popular demonstration against the local government was held here to-day. For a considerable time there has been only one unofficial member of the Legislative Council, and this has given rise to nuch public dissatisfaction, especially in view of the proposition to unite the islands of Grenada and St. Vincent under one administration. At a public meeting held on October 9 a resolution was passed expressing the opinion that legislation looking to the union of the two islands should be deferred until the appointment of the full number of unofficial members of the council. The government, however, ignored this resolution, and when the council met to-day the session was attended by the public, who joined the single unofficial member in protesting against the constitution of the council, shouting repeatedly: "We protest against the constitution of this council and demand that an adjournment be taken and the council reconstituted."
The legislature, in conformity with this demand, adjourned the council, and the inhabitants of the island are now drawing up a memorial to

HATRED OF AMERICANS GROWING.

Life of Consul at Canton Threatened-Investigating Murder of Missionaries.

Lay, has received an anonymous letter threatening his life if the imprisoned boycotters of American goods are not released. The consul has written to the Viceroy asking him to prohibit an anti-American mass meeting which it is proposed to hold in Canton, but the Viceroy apparently is indifferent.

The Emperor addressed a letter through the Foreign Minister to the British Minister at Seoul complaining of the absence of any reference to the independence of Corea in the Anglo-Japanese treaty. The Emperor said he would not sanction any agreement which would establish a Japanese protectorate over Corea, and later he informed one of the princesses he would kill himself by swallowing oplum rather than bear the threatened loss of Corean prestige.

When Wallace equipped his expedition in June he made all arrangements to return here and take up his law practice not later than the middle of October. All these things, known to his friends, cause them grave fear for his safety. He took, according to his own statement, only enough provisions for rinety days.

Mrs. Hubbard is known to have started out with even less provision, but it is possible that the halfbreed, George Elson, who accompanied her, may have taken her to some reservation along the Labrador littoral.
